

Citation Needed Prizes

A DVD of the film where the singer of Purple Rain trades places with a peasant who looks just like him – The Artist formerly known as Prince and the Pauper

Some shares in the company that is owned by the star of The Big Lebowski, that enables passengers to board airliners safely – Jeff Bridges' Jet Bridges

A trip to the edge of the atmosphere with the host of the '90s game show Small Talk – Ronnie Corbett – Low Earth Orbit

A gift voucher to everyone's favorite communist high street shops – Marx and Spencer

A copy of the game where you have to get executives of a disgraced bank to jump through pipes and defeat Bowser – Super Lehman Brothers

A piece of classical music played using old military ordinance. – Pachelbel's Cannon in D

Two hours racing around the coast, desperately trying to collect clams with a famous ballerina – Darcey Bussell's Mussel Hustle

A holiday to a French resort with Sulu from Star Trek and the director of Transformers – George Takei and Michael Bay's week away in Saint-Tropez

You've won the freedom of the city – ah, no, sorry, you've won the free Dom of the city, so do enjoy him.

A miniature library to be inserted rectally, from which you can shoot the President of the United States – The Texas Book Suppository

A replica of the singer of Living on a Prayer made of small chocolate sweet candies – A Bon-Bon Jovi

The sandwich grill that emblazons collectible images of footballers into your bread – The Panini Sticker Press

A year's supply of AA batteries, courtesy of He-Man's new company – The Power of Grey Skull

A gift certificate for the shop owned by a treasure-hunt skyrunner, which sells small rodents, pests that live in hair, and adult magazines – Mice, Vice and Lice, by Anneka Rice

A British Prime Minister's feeding trough, that tells kids to be wary of people they don't know – John Major's Stranger Danger Manger

You win Updog – What's Updog? – Not much, what's up with you?

Rum and lime-flavored Mexican food cooked by the star of Taxi and Mathilda – A Danny Devito Mojito Burrito

Leafy green vegetables from one of the fathers of computing – Babbage's Cabbages

You win a pigeon, although you do have to collect it from Trafalgar Square

Tiny deep-fried mashed potato balls, presented by an American folk hero, every day for a week – Davey Crocket's Dainty Croquettes Daily

A permission to dress up as a famous frog and go hide in a cave – A Hermit Kermit Permit

A patch of somerset marshland that's been filled with oily fish, that was previously owned by a documentary filmmaker and a white rapper – Michael Moore and Mackelmore's Mackerel Moor

A restaurant that cooks lingerie over a box of hot coals that was previously owned by a famous civil engineer – Brunel's Brassieres and Brazier's Brasserie

You win a subscription to the Badger of the Month Club – Do try to be in when they deliver it, though, they get a bit angry if you leave them with the neighbors

A confederate general made out of interlocking stones without any mortar – A Dry Stonewall Jackson

A Formula 1 champion's steel water boiler – Sebastian Vettel's Metal Kettle

An intimate waxing by a legendary six-time Grammy-winning American composer – Burt Bacharach Back Crack and Sack

A hellbound Ford Transit previously owned by a Belgian action star that's had a genetic copy made of its mandible – Jean-Claude van Damme's Damned Clone-Jawed Van

Chocolate icing in the shape of a cow – La Vache Ganache

A circular muscle with the head of a man and the body of a lion – The Sphinxter

A highly expensive summary of the life of an American horror actor – Vincent Price's Very Pricey Precis

A gambling den for nocturnal birds of prey run by the star of The Godfather from the back of a '59 Chevy – Al Pacino's El Camino Owl Casino

A tour around a giant underground laboratory designed to accelerate flatulence close to the speed of light – A Farticle Accelerator

Two words mixed together by the actress who played Padmé in the Star Wars prequels – A Natalie Portmanteau

A visit to a late night electrically boosted bathing spray run by a member of boyband Another Level – Dane Bowers' After Hours Power Showers

A stuffed toy inspired by the villain from Nightmare on Elm Street – A Teddy Krueger

A Greek philosopher's Mexican salamander speed control – Aristotle Axolotl Throttle

Some rice, raw fish and seaweed in the shape of a luxury car – A Sushi Rolls Royce

An express trip to see the buttock cleavage of one of Tenacious D – Jack Black's Fast Track Ass Crack

A small fast bird that makes clothing for other small fast birds – Tailor Swift

A bright orange thing for a large mustelid to bounce on in isolation – Tangerine Wolverine Quarantine Trampoline

A tool for combing through ponds to find male ducks signed by a Canadian rapper. -Ah sorry, looks like his signature is actually a forgery – A (Fake) Drake Lake Drake Rake

A brand new armored fighting vehicle that is actually an old fighting vehicle, just rebooted to look modern. – A J. J. Abrams Tank

Breakfast food prepared by the star of Sherlock – Eggs Benedict Cumberbatch

A rope that keeps out vultures owned by the star of 'Gavin and Stacey' and 'The Late Late Show'" – James Cordon's Condor Cordon

A device to help cool the lower jaws of South American rodents – A Chinchilla Chin Chiller

A chocolate bar shaped like a cartoon frog that is also the lead singer of a Queen tribute act – Freddo Mercury

A trip to an all you can eat garlic restaurant – Buffet the Vampire Slayer

A vertical purple lead ass – A plumb plum Plumbum bum

A shirt that exposes your midriff, sponsored by a series of Korean boy bands – A K-Pop Crop Top

A DVD of the little-known crossover between a marsupial from Australia and a time lord from Gallifrey – Skippy the Bush Dr. Who